Lauren Pollaro Art Jewelry

The terms collage and assemblage best describe Lauren Pollaro's process in making her one-of-a-kind pieces. She creates harmony with the interplay of dynamic color, texture, materials and technique. She received her degree in fine arts from the University of New Hampshire and has been working as a jewelry artist for over twenty years.

David Ernster - Ceramics

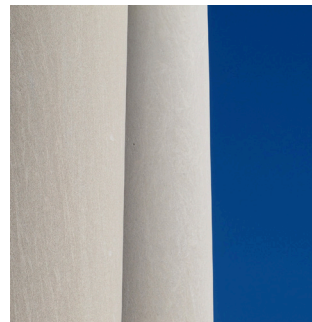

David Ernster has always been interested in vessels and the ideas of containment and protection, and the mystery they evoke. He received a BFA in metalsmithing and jewelry, and an MFA in ceramics from West Virginia University. He has worked professionally as a production potter, goldsmith and designer, independent studio artist, and educator. He continuously explores new forms and techniques; many of his most recent pieces are included in this exhibition.

Curator's Selection - Familiar and New

The final exhibition of the season is an opportunity to introduce new artists to the gallery as well as to feature many of our regular exhibitors. Exhibiting artists include: Judith Allen-Efstathiou, Louise Bourne, Amy Brnger, Anna Dibble, Grant Drumheller, Julia Einstein, Ellen Hopkins Fountain, Ellen Friel, Brett X. Gamache, Tom Glover, Toby Gordon, Frank Gregory, Jaap Helder, Madeleine Hopkins, Timothy Johnson, Bruce McColl, Kathleen Robbins, Gail Spaien, Michael Stasiuk, Michael Walek, Jan ter Weele, Molly Doe Wensberg, Carter Wentworth, Don Williams, Diane Bowie Zaitlin, Julia Zanes.
